QuestSoft Named Recipient of HousingWire's HW TECH100™ for Second Consecutive Year

LAGUNA HILLS, CALIF., March 10, 2015 – QuestSoft, a provider of automated mortgage compliance software, was named a recipient of HousingWire's TECH100™ for the second consecutive year. The HW TECH100 signifies the housing market's most innovative technology and features industry-leading companies that deliver unique solutions to the U.S. mortgage industry.

"Recognition by HousingWire's HW TECH100 is a great honor, and the list supports our commitment to the mortgage industry to provide the most comprehensive, easiest to use compliance platform available," said Leonard Ryan, founder and president of QuestSoft. "Our commitment to our customers is our highest priority. This acknowledgement signifies to us that our software is continuing to shape the industry through seamless implementation and compliant technology."

QuestSoft was selected for the second consecutive year and recognized for the ability of its flagship program, Compliance EAGLE, to exceed HousingWire's criteria of innovation, which include elegant implementation, unique solution, fast growth, market influence and potential. Additionally, the automated compliance software provider was recognized as a 2015 recipient based on a series of key criteria, which include a focus on technology spanning across the residential mortgage lending, residential mortgage servicing and residential mortgage investments or real estate space.

"This year we were struck by the level of innovation we saw, with 40 new additions to the HW TECH100," said Jacob Gaffney, executive editor of HousingWire. "That speaks to how much change is taking place in the mortgage industry overall right now; we're seeing a lot of market disruption, and technology providers are clearly taking advantage of the opportunity that creates."

About the HW TECH100™
The HW TECH100™ highlights the housing economy's 100 most innovative technology companies, along six unique dimensions of innovation. The annual awards program is the only program of its kind to include technology serving both the U.S. residential real estate and U.S. residential mortgage industries.
