The Orange County Register Names QuestSoft to 2013 Best Places to Work List

LAGUNA HILLS, CALIF., Dec. 5, 2013 – QuestSoft Corp., a leading provider of automated mortgage compliance software, has been recognized as a Top Workplace by The Orange County Register.

QuestSoft was one of 50 companies named in the list's small company category for its commitment to encourage a positive and joyful work environment, as well as the company's continued focus on promoting professional development.

"With 18 years of experience in the mortgage industry, QuestSoft's main focus has been to provide outstanding service and support to all of our customers; but being named one of 2013's Best Places to Work by The Orange County Register proves that our employees are just as satisfied as our customers," said Leonard Ryan, president of QuestSoft. "This award confirms to me that when your goal is to provide value and service to your customers, it reflects on the entire workplace."

According to the Orange County Register, more than 60,000 employees from more than 1,000 companies across Orange County participated in the 2013 Top Workplaces survey, and responded anonymously to 19 statements about their workplace experience and leadership at their companies. Employees ranked their supervisors in areas such as ongoing training, culture and atmosphere, pay and benefits, inspiration from managers, and meaningfulness of their work.

For the first time, the survey also asked employees to rank their companies as to how "socially responsible" they are. The top-rated winners include companies that donate time and resources to the homeless, hospitals, schools, senior centers and animal shelters.

"Work is personable and enjoyable at QuestSoft because of our shared commitment to customer service and management's attitudes toward an even work/life balance," said Jennifer Mathwig, integration specialist for QuestSoft. "This year has been a year of innovation, expansion and satisfaction for QuestSoft, and this award solidifies the great leadership and energy every staff member brings to work each day.”
