QuestSoft Standardizes Regulatory Submission Complexities with Uniform Process through New Submission RELIEF Solution

LAGUNA HILLS, CALIF., June 9, 2016 –QuestSoft, a provider of automated mortgage compliance software, today announced enhancements to its complete line of RELIEF products, which create a single process for submission of diverse regulator required data. The module, called Submission RELIEF, combines the complicated formatting under current Federal Reserve HMDA, the new CFPB HMDA for 2017 data, the expanded CFPB HMDA data for 2018 and beyond, as well as aggregate CRA reporting in a single, simple, and encrypted process.

The module has already been embedded at no extra charge into QuestSoft's existing products, including Compliance RELIEF, HMDA RELIEF and CRA RELIEF to provide scrubbed, error-free exports for official data submissions to regulators. Submission RELIEF complements the already seamless upload of NMLS Call Reporting data using QuestSoft's Call Report RELIEF software.

QuestSoft's Submission RELIEF solution effectively eliminates retraining when regulators elect to change their formats. Users simply need to confirm their institution's reporting information, select the Submission RELIEF module, and the output data is instantly converted into the proper format, encrypted with the appropriate government security, appended with the proper transmission protocols and submitted securely via the web.

"The Submission RELIEF process allows lenders in enhanced security and virtual server environments to submit their data safely and securely with no assistance from IT professionals," said QuestSoft President Leonard Ryan. "This enables lenders to submit quickly and easily, and get back to productive tasks much faster than before."
